How to make your home eco-friendly

March 27th, 2007

Concerns about global warming are making us all think again about living a 'greener' lifestyle. Every home can do there bit to help the environment and save money at the same time. It is a known fact that British homes emit much more carbon dioxide than the whole of UK industry put together. So, if you are interested in doing your bit, and yes, your bit can make a difference, read on and start to think about how you will spend the money you will save! Read the rest of this entry »

Investing in a timeshare property

December 12th, 2006

Although many people tend to associate 'timeshare' with bad press, investing in this type of property can have many benefits. Of course there are good and not so good timeshare companies, but first advice is to go on recommendations by people who have already taken the step and make sure that you are fully aware of what you are signing up to.
